Race to Millennium

Figures carved in stone are among the greatest architectural treasures left to us by early Greek and Roman cultures. Often carved into relief for adornment on buildings, these figures depicted mythological ideals and everyday life. Race to Millennium adapts this ancient art form to modern use. Replicated from photographs of an original hellenistic plate, the scene carved into this massive alabaster bowl depicts winged warrior gods in chariots led by fiery stallions as they race into eternal battle. Subject to availability.
